Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on May 18, 2006 has been entered.

EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Applicant's attorney Paul Mitchell on Aug. 01, 2006.

Amendment:

To the Application received on April 21, 2006 please modify the following:

Art Unit: 2161

Claim 28 (Currently amended): A system for managing a directory of downlevel published ~~printable~~ objects and removing nonfunctional downlevel published objects, the directory maintained on a computer network, and a directory service for providing access to resources represented by corresponding objects in the directory of published downlevel ~~printable~~ objects, the system comprising:

a pruning module including a module for testing if a specified object, from the directory of published downlevel ~~printable~~ objects, is accessible, a module for determining if the specified object is deleteable, wherein a list of orphaned objects is tested in accordance with a specifiable policy that monitors the specified object to determine if the specified object is orphaned, and a module for testing if software hosting the specified object is republishable ~~capable of republishing the specified object~~, wherein the specifiable policy comprises:

- initializing a print spooler directory services component;

- identifying a machine acting as a domain controller for the specified object;

- determining a site on which the domain controller is running;

- searching a domain associated with the domain controller for the specified object;

- checking a print server site for the specified object;

- verifying that the print server exists, in an instance where the print server exists, comparing a printer identification with an identification of the specified object;

referencing a printer object pruning policy in an instance where a match between the printer identification and the specified object identification is not established;

[[a]] the domain controller hosting the pruning module and the directory of published downlevel objects the domain controller configured to receive user input specifying thread priority for the pruning module; and a thread for executing the pruning module.

Claim 40 (Cancelled).

49. (Currently amended) A ~~computer-implemented method~~ computer-readable storage media having computer-readable instructions therein that, when executed by a computing device, cause the computing device to perform acts comprising:
obtaining a list of published objects controlled by domain controllers of a computer network, wherein individual published objects contain a globally unique ID and a reference to ~~are intended to contain references and attributes of~~ a logical device; pruning objects from the list based upon testing with a specified policy comprising:
testing if a specified object from the list is accessible, determining if the specified object is deleteable, and wherein a list of orphaned objects is tested in accordance with a specifiable policy that monitors the specified object to determine if the specified object is orphaned, and testing whether the specified object is republishable, comprising:

Art Unit: 2161

initializing a print spooler directory services component;

identifying a machine acting as the domain controller for the specified object;

determining a site on which the domain controller is running;

searching a domain associated with the domain controller for the specified object;

checking a print server site for the specified object;

verifying that the print server exists, in an instance where the print server exists, comparing a printer identification with an identification of the specified object;

referencing a printer object pruning policy in an instance where a match between the printer identification and the specified object identification is not established;

hosting the pruning module and the directory of published downlevel objects and receiving user input specifying thread priority for the pruning

~~whether an individual object is orphaned from the logical device, determining if the individual object is deleteable, and ascertaining if software hosting the individual object is capable of republishing the individual object; and,~~

~~assigning said testing, said determining, and said ascertaining thread priorities specified by a user.~~

Claim 50 (Cancelled).

Claim 51 (Currently amended) A computer-implemented method for managing a directory of downlevel published objects and removing nonfunctional downlevel published objects, the method comprising:

- identifying at least one printer object;
- evaluating whether the at least one printer object should be pruned by performing acts comprising:
 - initializing a print spooler directory services component;
 - creating a pruning thread;
 - identifying a machine acting as a domain controller;
 - determining a site on which the domain controller is running;
 - searching a domain associated with the domain controller for the printer object;
 - checking a print server site for the printer object;
 - verifying that the print server exists, in an instance where the print server exists, comparing a printer identification with an identification of the printer object; and,
 - referencing a printer object pruning policy in an instance where a match between the printer identification and the printer object identification is not established.

Claim 52 (Cancelled).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 28, 49 and 51 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 28, 49 and 51, are allowable because the prior art on record or that encountered in searching for the invention, fails to disclose or suggest the features of instant invention – a pruning module to track nonfunctional downlevel published objects as described in instant specification page 17, lines 18-23 for either removing the published downlevel objects or republishing the downlevel objects by testing a list of orphaned objects against a specifiable policy to perform the operations in a combination as recited by applicant.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
